What is Presbytery?

A Brief Introduction to the Presbytery of WA

Since the beginning of the Christian movement leadership has been very important. Jesus called disciples to be with him and to go out in mission. Such concern for leadership was already present within the Jewish faith. The letters of the New Testament talk about spiritual gifts of shared leadership. In this long tradition the Uniting Church also recognises the importance of faithful leadership and good government.

Government in the Uniting Church

According to our founding document, the Basis of Union, the Uniting Church is governed by a series of inter-related councils made up of members of the church, both women and men, who have been elected because of the gifts and graces they have to build up the body of Christ. Each council is to wait upon God's Word and to seek to discern and obey God's will in the matters for which it has oversight. Each council must recognise the limits of its authority and give heed to other councils.

Congregations are central to the life of the Uniting Church, worshipping, witnessing, and serving as a fellowship of the Spirit of Christ. Their role is to meet regularly to hear God's Word, to celebrate the sacraments, to build one another up in love, to share in the wider responsibilities of the church, and to serve the world.

The Church Council is elected to have oversight of a congregation. They are responsible to build up the congregation in faith and love, sustain its members in hope, and lead them into a fuller participation in Christ's mission in the world.

The Presbytery is a council made up of ministers in placement and members elected by congregations. It has oversight of the faith and discipline of ministers and the life and mission of congregations. The Presbytery's role is to encourage congregations to strengthen one another's faith, bear one another's burdens and exhort them to fulfil their high calling in Christ Jesus.

The Synod is a council made up of ministers and lay members elected by the Presbytery and representatives of agencies under the oversight of Synod, such as schools and community service agencies. The Synod has general oversight of the direction and administration of the church's worship, witness, and service.

The Assembly is a national council made up of ministers and lay members elected by Presbyteries and Synods. It has determining responsibility for matters of doctrine, worship, government, and discipline, promotes the mission of the church, sets standards for theological education, and seeks closer union with other churches.

In doing so the network:

- Promotes intercultural relationships within and between congregations and provides opportunities for meaningful cross-cultural encounters (including special events) to learn from one another.
- Supports CALD congregations, faith communities and fellowships by walking alongside them, listening to and sharing stories, and seeking solutions for issues or needs through collaboration within the Network or by raising concerns with the Presbytery.

This Network is open to people who either lead congregations in rural or remote areas or are interested in rural and remote ministry. The Network provides opportunity to connect with others, share experiences, hear and voice concerns, give mutual support and create and deliver practical ways of supporting leaders and faith communities in rural and remote areas.

The Network provides regular worship resources for congregations without a minister in placement in both city and rural locations.
